

BuilderMT Launches New “Mobile Scheduling” at IBS

New Smart-Phone, Web-Based Construction Scheduling Extends Enterprise Software Capabilities to Mobile Devices

IBS Show Floor & Lakewood, Colorado — January 12, 2011 — BuilderMT, North America’s best-selling construction workflow software solution provider, announced that it has launched its new BuilderMT Mobile Scheduling module at the 2011 International Builders Show in Orlando.

Developed for iPhone, iPad, Android, Blackberry, and Palm-Pre, BuilderMT’s new Mobile Scheduling is not a “phone app,” but an integrated, Web-based smart-phone system. BuilderMT Mobile Scheduling is accessed after a user securely logs in over a phone-based browser.

Fully integrated into BuilderMT’s award-winning scheduling and workflow systems, BuilderMT Mobile Scheduling uses a phone-based browser to show user-specific scheduled and/or uncompleted tasks. Once accessed, the phone user can assign activities to any vendor or sub, with notification to one - or many - project managers and field managers. From anywhere in the field, users of BuilderMT Mobile Scheduling can tag a task as canceled, un-complete, re-scheduled, and / or un-schedule. All data integrates back to BuilderMT and Sage Timberline Accounting and Explorer Contract Manager.

“To fully integrate mobile event scheduling into the workflow of a construction project is no simple task. You really can’t depend on a phone app to accomplish the task,” said BuilderMT President, Tom Gebes. “So we have launched BuilderMT Mobile Scheduling, which extends true enterprise software capability to the smart-phone level.”
