Lakewood, CO — August 15, 2011 — BuilderMT, North America’s best-selling construction workflow software solution provider, announced today that it has added new home builder customers to its user base at a rate that far exceeds even its aggressive goals. BuilderMT recently added home builders that represent 2,500 “starts,” which are now running through BuilderMT’s multi-award-winning Workflow Management Suite. This surge in sales comes on the heels of yet another award for BuilderMT, which again landed on the “Constructech 50” list of elite technology providers. This award maintains BuilderMT’s status at the most-award-winning technology provider in home building today.

“While our competitors are either not investing in their technology or looking to sell off their own companies, BuilderMT stands committed to improving its technology, especially through its fast-growing Advisory Group of Builders,” said Tom Gebes, BuilderMT’s president. “With our recent sales success, and an additional technology award, it’s enormously satisfying to maintain our #1 position in the market, even in these tough times.”
