BuilderMT Launches Warranty Management Program

BuilderMT Partners with Corrigo to Provide Web and Wireless
Warranty Management to Homebuilders and Subcontractors

Lakewood, Colorado—October 5, 2006— BuilderMT—the nation’s leading provider of production management software for residential homebuilders—today announced it has launched its long-anticipated warranty management software module, BuilderMT Warranty powered by Corrigo. The new offering integrates the industry’s most popular and full featured warranty management system with BuilderMT’s leading homebuilding production management software.

BuilderMT Warranty makes the flow of warranty information seamless among anyone engaged in the home-warranty and product-repair process, including homeowners, homebuilders, subcontractors, and service providers. The new warranty management module will work with BuilderMT’s entire Workflow Management Suite and have access to information from its various modules, including Purchasing, Scheduling, and Wireless Scheduling. BuilderMT Warranty powered by Corrigo extends this suite with the only warranty management solution that links everyone in the warranty process, from the homeowner to field supervisors and subcontractors, over the web and wireless devices, to accelerate customer service, increase customer satisfaction and lower warranty service costs.

BuilderMT Warranty powered by Corrigo decreases the cost of home warranty service by automatically dispatching service requests, eliminating paperwork, reducing dry runs and offering tools to review and approve sub-contractor charges and cost assessments. BuilderMT Warranty may also help reduce litigation risks, as it constantly maintains an audit trail of service request details with accurate, date-stamped records. Plus, BuilderMT Warranty offers punchlist management and systems to standardize a builder’s service-delivery processes. It is the only solution available that enables field supervisors to delight homeowners by creating and automatically dispatching warranty tasks wirelessly while in the home.

BuilderMT Warranty is powered by Corrigo, a leader in web and wireless mobile service management solutions that currently serves over 100,000 users in the building construction and service industries by managing over 8 million service requests a year. No other builder software system has the integrated warranty functionality now offered by BuilderMT Warranty powered by Corrigo.

"Customers win when two best-of-breed solutions come together," said Rick Michaux, Corrigo's President. "Homebuilders using this integrated solution will be able to increase homeowner satisfaction and referrals while reducing their warranty costs – just what they need to prosper in a more competitive market."

"Corrigo is the best warranty management software available today, so it's a perfect fit, because we work only with the best," said Tom Gebes, President of BuilderMT. "With Corrigo as the underlying technology, BuilderMT Warranty will offer a range of services otherwise unavailable to homebuilders today. We have builders knocking down our door for this warranty management capability, and we can now offer it as a fully integrated part of our core software, including full integration with Sage Timberline Office."
