Ennis Homes Selects BuilderMT Software to Run Its Award-Winning Home Building Operations, Among Largest in California's Central Valley

Former Co-Founder of the Technology Enhancement Project, Switches to BuilderMT Software, Citing Need for Process-Based Capabilities, Ease-of-Use, and Low Maintenance Fees

Lakewood, Colorado — April 12, 2007 — BuilderMT, the nation's leading provider of production management software for residential home builders, today announced that Ennis Homes has elected to switch its home building operations to BuilderMT software. The move was initiated by Ennis Homes' president & CEO, Brian Ennis, who had recently earned headlines as a founder of the Technology Enhancement Project, LLC (TEP), a builder-financed group that sought to act as a development partner for software enhancements with Builder 360, which was recently acquired by Constellation HomeBuilder Systems.

Citing BuilderMT's award-winning staff, leading functionality, low maintenance fees, reputation for continued enhancements, and thorough implementations, Ennis Homes is another in a series of high-profile customer wins for BuilderMT, as the BuilderMT continues to sustain the double-digit growth it has experienced every year since its inception in 1999. Specifically, Ennis Homes comes to BuilderMT through its Switch Campaign (BuilderMT.com/Switch), where BuilderMT has converted dozens of builders from other software systems through its wide-reaching data conversions program. In the case of Ennis Homes, the conversion to BuilderMT is from Builder 360, formally BuildSoft Enterprise.

"BuilderMT has already created many of the enhancements that TEP targeted more than two years ago, and that's impressive," said Brian Ennis, of Ennis Homes. "Ennis Homes choose BuilderMT because it wants to partner with a company that is serious about enhancing their software from the builder's perspective. Moreover, BuilderMT has a 'can do' attitude second to none in the industry, and in hindsight, BuilderMT would have been a better original choice for our Technology Enhancement Project."

"We're delighted to count Ennis Homes among our rapidly growing list of customers," said Tom Gebes, BuilderMT's president. "The fact that Ennis Homes is such a high profile leader in the builder community only underscores the conspicuous value BuilderMT can bring to builders of any size, any background, and any legacy computer code base."

Today, 4,000 users across 700 companies use BuilderMT software to manage 300,000 annual starts and issue 53,000,000 purchase orders each year.

About Ennis Homes

Founded in 1979, Ennis Homes has built a solid reputation as one of the largest and best family-owned homebuilders in the Central Valley. Today, Brian Ennis and Pam Ennis (brother and sister) carry on their family's tradition of creating California Central Valley's most desirable homes. As a private, local, family-owned business, Ennis Homes, known as "The Family Builder," is uniquely different from the national, regional, and publicly-held builders. The Central Valley is where the Ennis family lives and raises its families and Ennis Homes' homes are designed with pride and passion. Ennis Homes has won a string of awards, including Professional Builder Magazine's "Top 400 Builders Nationwide" for seven years and Home Building Association's "Builder of the Year," which Ennis Homes has won three times.
